She's no secretary

If you telephone Staley and Grossman and a woman answers, don't presume she's the secretary. The voice on the end of the phone may be Patty L. Grossman, attorney at law.

"It's the public who seems most surprised to find out I'm a woman lawyer, said Grossman. 'I haven't had any problems with my colleagues. Every now and then a judge may get a little patronizing. They seem to think 'Oh, what a cute little thing,' and try to be a helpful father-type," she said.

Grossman, one of only two women lawyers practicing in the valley, said she has encountered little overt discrimination.

"I sometimes get the feeling I have to prove myself, but I'm not sure if that's because I'm a young attorney or because I'm female," Grossman said.

A resident of Pleasanton, Grossman joined John Staley's Livermore firm in March 1974. Her practice is composed of criminal, family and business law.

"Being a lawyer is not like I thought it would be," said Grossman who decided as an undergraduate that she would become an attorney.

"People seem to have this Perry Mason image of attorneys. They think we're all rolling in dough. Or else, due to Watergate, they think attorneys are crooks," she said.

Grossman attended the College of San Mateo for two years. She transferred to the University of California, Berkeley where she received a bachelor's degree in political science Summa Cum Laude and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

She received her law degree from Golden Gate University. During law school she met and married Alan Grossman, an attorney with Struthers and Harris in Pleasanton.

"I went through the bar twice, once with my husband and once with me. It was an excruciating experience," she recalled.

Grossman spent six months writing legal research books for Matthew Bender.

"I decided that I wanted to go into private practice, and I thought the valley was ripe to have a woman attorney," she said.

One of the most satisfying aspects of her work, Grossman said, is the opportunity to "extend myself out into the community."

Grossman recently was elected to the Livermore Chamber of Commerce. She also serves as legal advisor to the valley chapter of the National Organization of Women.

"I'm happy about being a member of NOW. It's nice to be able to associate with the women as friends, and to be able to help, too," she said.

Grossman keeps NOW members up to date in changes in the law that affect women. At a recent meeting, she discussed the Supreme Court vacancy that President Ford then had not filled.

"I don't favor John Stevens because, for one thing, he is anti-Equal Rights Amendment," she said. "There are plenty of qualified women attorneys who could have been considered," she added.

Grossman rejected speculation she might seek a Pleasanton City Council seat next March.

"I doubt very much I'd run this time. I have a great many commitments that keep me busy," she said. "The council would take a lot of effort, and I can't expend the time right now."

Grossman admits the time she spends with her husband during the week is limited. But a wife-and-husband partnership, she mused, would not be the answer.

"I don't think it would be beneficial to our marriage to be together 24 hours a day," she said. "We can handle a broader range of cases separately, and we can make more money against each other than we can together."

Could total $7 million Valley civic projects need funding

PLEASANTON — The fate of the city sewage treatment situation still appears to be the key in just how much other civic growth will occur and how soon it will happen, community leaders believe.

Now that redevelopment is dead, its $4.5 million worth of capital improvement projects live on, still looking for funding. In addition the council also faces at least $1.3 million to perhaps more than $2 million worth of capital improvements in the area of park development, as recommended a few months ago by its advisory park and recreation commission.

Between the two capital improvement packages, totaling as much as $6.5 to $7 million, the city could use up most of the $8 million bonding capacity it has right now.

But the third element in the picture is the sewage treatment problem. Whatever solution is adopted, it is likely the city will have to sell bonds to pay its share. They could be revenue bonds, which would save money for taxpayers, but those bonds would still eat into the city's bonding capacity, say city officials.

Another important factor is how the taxpayer would respond to a financial tap for capital improvements. The general mood of the country is to vote "no" on a tax election. However, a special census taken last year in the city revealed overwhelming support for passage of a park bond issue. There was also a decisive margin for a bond issue to finance sewer improvements.

But no dollar amounts were mentioned in the poll and it isn't clear how deep voters want to dig into their pockets.

For every $1 million worth of bonds, the owner of a $40,000 house would have to see his tax bill rise an additional $6 to $7 per year. It will be up to community leaders to figure out just how much the taxpayer will buy.

On the parks end of the capital improvements program, the park and recreation commission held 18 public meetings with nearly all organized recreation groups in town and various homeowners associations to hear what they perceived as needs.

Ken Mercer, park and recreation commissioner who attended those meetings, told The Times yesterday that the priorities were ranked from the strongest needs on down. Mercer felt the total price tag on things he feels necessary over the next 10 years would amount to a little more than $2 million.

"If you can get in the turf and picnic tables so they can throw a frisbee or have a pickup game, that's what people are looking for in the neighborhood parks, so they don't have to drive down to Amador Park," said Mercer.

He does not want to acquire any more park sites, now that the city owns more than 200 acres of parks, including the 105 acre Youth Sports Park. He wants to spend the money on park improvements.

One thing Mercer discovered at the public hearings was the willingness of people to contribute volunteer labor for park development.

"Nearly all the groups we heard said they would like to help develop tot lots, install trees and do other things, so it is difficult to determine how much this would save the city on a park bond issue," said Mercer.

Priorities varied widely across the city, he said. People in Vintage Hills put development of their local park at the top of the list, others living near Youth Sports Park favored theirs for top priority, said Mercer.

"Priorities need to be set on a community-wide basis by the city council, but at the hearings we got the neighborhood opinion," he said.

Councilman Roger McLain has suggested formation of a citizens committee after the election next March which would make a priority list of necessary capital improvements and how they might be financed.

The value of a citizens committee determining the priorities is its ability to clearly inform the community what will and won't happen with capital improvements, said McLain.

Residents may not know that by favoring one expensive park project, they will be eliminating the money for an important project like the Las Positas overcrossing, said McLain. The citizens committee will be aware of such things, said McLain.

McLain didn't want to commit himself to any priorities, except to say "You always feel that safety is number one. The Las Positas overcrossing is on top of the list of things we are trying to accomplish, but I want to look at the possibility of state and federal money paying for it."

"First we need to look at the tasks needed to be done, then at how they will be financed. They may not all have to be financed through general obligation bonds. There is volunteer labor and federal and state funding, too," said McLain.

Councilman William Herlihy said he has a few "pet capital improvement projects" on his mind.

"There is the Las Positas Boulevard overcrossing and I would really like to see us complete the Youth Sports

Park. We should also have a look at the possibility of expanding the civic center, adding a council meeting room to city hall.

"The county lease runs out next year on the justice court and we will have to see how much it costs to renew it. It could be expensive and it might be good to start on the second phase of the civic center in a year. We have to evaluate it and see what happens."

"We also need another fire station. We seem to have solved our problem in Highland Oaks with a temporary station. Maybe we need another one on the east side of town," said Herlihy.

Herlihy likes McLain's suggestion of a citizens committee to review all possible capital improvement projects. "It should be an ad hoc committee and go out of existence after it finishes its job. It should hold extensive public hearings and have a total of 25 or 30 members. We need a large committee to get a good cross section of the community," said Herlihy.

Stoneson passes up sewer connections

PLEASANTON — Stoneson Corporation recently passed up available sewer connections, but that won't have any bearing on how soon the proposed Stoneridge Regional Center will be built, according to city officials.

Sewer connections for the center are covered in a special paragraph in the sewer agreement and the connections recently made available are in another category, according to City Attorney Ken Scheidig. In effect, Stoneson passed up connections which it might have used for the extensive multiple developments planned near the future shopping center.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire, who attended a recent sewer committee meeting which discussed the connections, said that Stoneson will have another chance at those connections on the next round. Officers in the Taubman Company, which is developing the shopping center, have assured her and other council members that the center will be built.

LeClaire told The Times she is pessimistic about the center because of the council's recent unanimous decision to limit population over the next 20 years to 48,000, as dictated by Environmental Protection Agency guidelines.

"I think it is having an effect on the developer," said LeClaire. "That's unfortunate if it does because their market area extends way beyond the valley. But they don't agree that there is enough population yet for the first stage of development. They feel the growth rate we adopted is so slow it won't bring in the income they planned."

Wilson's application does not meet the city's requirement for a 1,000 foot separation between septic tanks. However, the 1,000 foot separation is related to a 10 acre minimum site area initially recommended by staff, not the five acre minimum site which was adopted by the city council.

Septic tank request is postponed

PLEASANTON — Developer DeWitt Wilson's request for approval of two septic tanks on 18 acres at Foothill Road and Bernal Avenue was postponed last week by the city council.

Council members delayed action because the Alameda County Health Department has not finished its percolation tests at the site.

Wilson's application does not meet the city's requirement for a 1,000 foot separation between septic tanks. However, the 1,000 foot separation is related to a 10 acre minimum site area initially recommended by staff, not the five acre minimum site which was adopted by the city council.

Don Sooby, director of engineering services, believes that a 300- to 400-foot separation between septic tanks on five-acre lots is sufficient and Wilson's application meets that requirement.

Alameda County Supervisor John D. Murphy told The Times yesterday he has first call on one of the homes which Wilson will build. He is not the developer himself. He thought that a story in the Oakland Tribune yesterday may have given readers the mistaken impression that he is.

The new $2,000 Valley campus bus stop waits for public transportation that may never come.

Well, it was free, wasn't it?

A bus stop with no buses?

LIVERMORE — Of shiny new metal and sparkling glass, the modernistic enclosed bus stop rests on a well-traversed corner of the infant Chabot Valley campus.

But no buses stop at the campus.

So why did planners design, campus officials accept, and government agencies pay $2,232.52 for a structure which has no use?

"We never turn down a free offer," said Valley campus Dean Barbara Mertes. "The bus stop was donated by either the state or federal government, and we're hoping it will be utilized in the near future."

But AC Transit officials have no plans, either long or short range, which include providing bus transportation to the 2,000-student community college campus.

AC Transit Planner Don Larson said he knew of no plans to run a bus to the campus either as part of a BART-bus feeder service or exclusively for valley residents. He said there was talk of running a charter bus between the Hayward and Livermore campuses, but that idea was apparently discarded.

Chabot Hayward President Reed Buffington said he thought a valley citizens group would help to set up a charter route which would include the campus stop, but wasn't sure of the status of the stop presently.

"Public Transportation in Livermore," an analysis which features a combination Dial-a-Ride and fixed-route bus system, does include a bus stop at the campus. But the report is only a future agenda item for the city council, and deals with Livermore only, excluding stops in other valley areas.

Mertes said the charter companies analyzed the possibility of running a charter bus to the campus, but said the economics of the situation prohibit a private system. "We just don't have that kind of money right now," she said.

But Mertes says the structure is not without its benefits. "Students use it as a pick-up point for a ride home, and are protected by the rain. It is really quite nice."

Now if only a bus would stop by occasionally.

New buses begin BART service

OAKLAND — Those long awaited, new AC Transit buses for the valley's BART bus service will be activated today.

The buses were scheduled for operation earlier this month, but a fire aboard one of the buses as it was being driven cross-country caused the delay.

AC Transit officials said a fire partially destroyed a bus in Iowa on Dec. 5. A dual rear tire went flat and a fire started as the driver tried to drive on to a truck stop.

Because of the accident the district will install new "over-the-road" highway tires for the valley's buses.

The useful life of the highway tires is 55,000 miles as opposed to the 70,000 miles expected from transport tires currently used in the district.

Both AC Transit and Bay Area Rapid Transit District officials expect the new buses to increase patronage on the BART subsidized bus runs.

3000 acres — oasis or industrial center?

Livermore mulls tonnage tax on quarries

The valley's 3,000 acres of quarry land could wind up a pockmarked, crater ridden waste land, a lush oasis of rolling green parklands and lakes or an industrial heartland employing the local population and enriching its economy.

The decision is as much legal as it is political and economic, according to political and industrial leaders.

Livermore City Councilman Dale Turner's queries at Monday's council meeting about a "royalty fee" echo city planning commissioner Glen Dahlbacka's suggestion for a "tonnage tax" levied on sand and gravel pulled from the bowels of the valley.

In addressing the Alameda County Board of Supervisors earlier this month on the firms' reclamation plans for a 154 acre site south of Stanley Boulevard near Isabel Avenue, Dahlbacka broached the possibility of the tax.

"The cost of reclamation should be extracted from the gravel extractors in proportion to gravel extracted," he alliterated.

But the problem with such a simple solution is a Catch-22 premised in the state constitution.

Cities have the power to levy such a tax, but the quarry area is sandwiched between Livermore and Pleasanton and under the county's jurisdiction.

The county, however, is not empowered to assess such taxes.

According to county counsel Tom Fennone, the state constitution grants cities the right to handle "municipal affairs" through taxation. County government, however, is a political arm of the state and has no such rights.

"As a basic rule of thumb you can say the constitution allows cities to legislate whatever is not expressly forbidden them," Fennone said. "Counties are just the opposite. They can do only what the law expressly says they can do."

Counties can levy fees to recover administration costs in processing paper work and they can collect sales tax as an

"arm of the state." The power to collect property tax also is derived from the state in the counties' role as a "political sub-division," Fennone explained.

But community leaders fear first that the land may lie fallow once it has served the gravel industry, or at best will be "reclaimed" to minimum standards and dumped on the municipalities for maintenance.

The county granted Lone Star Industries and California Rock and Gravel Co. their quarry permit in 1969, but required approval of a reclamation plan before the final go-ahead for excavation.

In their Dec. 2 meeting the board of supervisors approved the plan upon condition the companies post $25,000 "performance bonds" each. The bonds must be garnered when excavation begins and will increase $2,000 each year to cover inflation.

But opponents argue the dollar amount is insufficient to cover reclamation costs if the firms default and that they do not provide for maintenance once the job is complete. "A bond is very difficult to cash in on," said Livermore Planning Director George Musso. "You practically have to go to court to collect it if the companies default."

Musso suggests a trust fund be set up based on the amount of gravel extracted. The fund would be under the control of both government and the industries and would be available to both for future development of the land.

The trust fund could be a condition of issuing the permit, he argues.

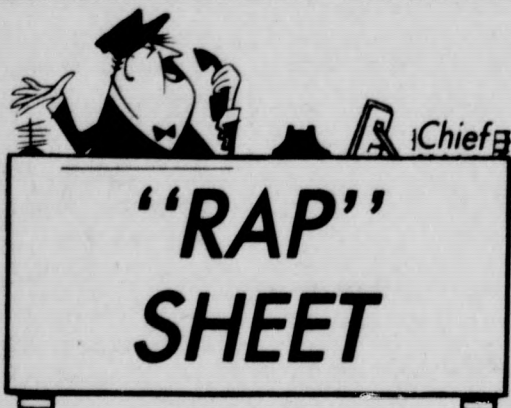

"It wouldn't do us much good right now, but we could try something in four years."

The reclamation plan and quarry permit will be reviewed four years after excavation begins.

Livermore has done it in the past, he continued. The city

Youth injured by train
LIVERMORE — An 11-year-old boy was seriously injured Tuesday after being hit by a Western Pacific train. Raymond Louis Lane of Bernal Ave. in Livermore was reported in satisfactory condition yesterday at Valley Memorial Hospital with lacerations and a broken leg sustained in the accident. Police said Lane and two companions were playing on the tracks Tuesday afternoon when a nine-car train traveling an estimated 40 miles per hour approached the youths. Two boys jumped off the tracks as the train neared. Lane waited until the engine was five feet away before jumping and was hit in mid-air by the car's side steps, police said. Police said no charges would be pressed against the boy due to his age.

Driveshaft removed from parked car
PLEASANTON — Thieves removed a driveshaft from a 1967 Chevelle while it was parked in Robert Crawford's Montpelier Court driveway early Wednesday. No monetary figure was placed on the driveshaft. A cigar package was found on the bumper, which police think may have been left by the suspects.

Psychiatric patient threatens to kill police officers
LIVERMORE — A man presently under psychiatric care threatened to kill two police officers because the pair "knew too much." Lt. Gary Souza and Ofc. Daniel O'Connell spoke to the man about a neighbor's complaint of being followed by him. During the conversation, the man said, "I appreciate the help you and Lt. Souza are giving me but you have to understand when this is all over I'll have to kill you both, you know too much." The man's psychiatrist was later contacted by police officers and told of the threat. The doctor replied that the man "could very well hurt or kill someone if he thinks he has to." No charges were placed against the man.

Valuables stolen from Portola School
LIVERMORE — Burglars pried open a latch on room 13 at Portola School over the weekend and stole tape recorders, radios and a variety of school supplies. Rooms 13, 14 and 15 were entered by burglars in an apparent search for valuables. No monetary amount was listed in the loss. Police have no suspects in the case.

Police arrest loiterer near high school
LIVERMORE — Anthony James Maniz, 18, of San Leandro was arrested and booked on suspicion of loitering near a public school and possession of burglar tools. Sgt. Larry Morrison had warned Maniz on a previous occasion to stay away from the Livermore High School campus, as another officer had done earlier. Maniz was seen talking to students Tuesday and arrested. A duffel bag containing what police described as burglary tools were seized from Maniz' truck. Police were readying a complaint to be forwarded to the district attorney's office for issuance of charges against Maniz.

Tracy man arrested and charged in kidnap-rape
LIVERMORE — A 31-year-old Tracy man was arrested in connection with a kidnap-rape which occurred in Tracy Sunday. Danny Hernandez was taken into custody by Sheriff's deputies after his car was recognized sighted at Flynn Road. A 27-year-old Tracy woman told police she was attacked in her vehicle outside of town. A description of the man's car was given to police, who broadcast it to Alameda County Sheriff's deputies because the suspect's destination was thought to be Dublin. The San Joaquin district attorney's office has filed charges of kidnap and rape against Hernandez. —by Bill Cauble

Valley obituary

Robert J. Bauge
Robert J. Bauge, a Pleasanton realtor for the past 12 years, died Wednesday at Kaiser Hospital in Walnut Creek. He was 60. He is survived by his wife, Mary, daughters Barbara Mathew of Tiburon, Carol Ann Draizen and Margaret Bauge of San Francisco, and a sister, Ellen Breen of Ames, Iowa. Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. at the United Presbyterian Church, 100 Neal St. in Pleasanton, with the Rev. Robert Vogt officiating. Family committal services will follow at Chapel of the Chimes Cemetery in Hayward. Friends may call at the Graham-Hitch Mortuary, 675 St. John St. today from 6-9 p.m.

Christmas is nigh

All Pleasanton residents are invited to enter the Christmas Home Decorating Contest being conducted by Pleasanton Jaycees. Cash prizes of $75 (first-place), $50 (second-place) and $25 (third-place) will be awarded to the three residences adjudged best by a panel of three senior residents of the community. Persons wishing to have their Christmas-decorated home judged should submit name and address to Christmas Contest, c/o Jaycees, Chamber offices, 10 W. Neal St., Pleasanton 94566. Deadline for entries is Saturday evening. Entries will be judged Sunday evening with results and photos of winning homes appearing in The Times by Dec. 24. The Jaycees' Don Grant and Glenn Shaffo are organizing the contest. ## City mulls tonnage tax required a joint bank account be set up to ensure completion of a project under city jurisdiction.

What happens, though, if the gravel firms decide they want their world headquarters on the back-filled pits, but the city decides it needs recreation land?

"The plans start to solidify as years go by," said Musso. "You're going to have the fight somewhere along the line, though."

The ultimate decision, though, will rest with the supervisors. Livermore City Attorney Gary Reiners thinks the "royalty fee" would imply "ownership" and hence be illegal.

The "tonnage tax" would be beyond the county's authority while the land itself would be out of the city's jurisdiction.

The idea of a regulatory fee is "interesting," he said, but state law says it must be related to the purpose of the business.

Couldn't reclamation be construed as "related to" gravel mining?

"That's stretching it a bit I think," he said, "but additional money at the time of the project sounds like it's beyond the concept of a royalty fee."

The whole problem is the city's lack of authority over the county's conditional approval.

"You're fishing in troubled water with no hook on the line."

The county's legal advisor discounts the "royalty fee" and "trust fund" along with the "tonnage tax."

"It was tried several years ago and when all the arguments were presented they called it extortion," Fennone said.

When Bill Apperson first proposed mining the Apperson Ridge six years ago he was taken to court by the East Bay Regional Parks District (EBRPD), Fennone continued.

He spent some 18 months in hearings when EBRPD finally offered to drop its suit if Apperson agreed to pay them a certain amount per ton of mined minerals. The district wanted the money to purchase lands for another park.

When all was said and done, however, it was ruled "extortion," the attorney quipped.

"The county simply doesn't have the power to tax or charge in advance. We can only cover costs."

Opponents argue local government may have to bear those costs in the future.

The reclamation plan for the Nienburg Ranch is specifically vague in its final design because "the decision can be better made 20 years from now," said civil engineer Dick Karn, a consultant for the industry.

The pit will be "T" shaped with virgin slopes along Stanley Boulevard to allow percolation of the valley's underground water supply.

"The public agencies we contacted really didn't know what they wanted to see done with the land," he explained, hence the open-ended reclamation plan.

The land can be used for water recreation, an industrial complex or returned to agricultural use, according to Karn.

"Reclamation is going on right now at the Kaiser headquarters. That's built on re-filled quarry land."

Lone Star Industries recently agreed to donate some 90 acres of former quarries in Fremont to the East Bay Regional Park District and to sell an adjoining 70 acres to the Alameda County Water District.

The water agency will use its portion for percolation and ground water recharge, but the entire 160 acre parcel will be available for recreation.

Karn argues that valley quarry pits will not simply become a waste land administered by city or county government. If the companies cannot find an agency to assume responsibility for the land, the firms will maintain them.

Attention, Auto-Buyers!

We have 1 million dollars to loan on new cars by January 31.

48 month financing available now

If you're considering a new-car purchase, you couldn't pick a better time to finance your buy. Valley Bank has one million dollars to loan residents of the Tri-Valley for new car purchases, and we have to loan it before January 31st. Because we're a local bank, staffed by local people, although we share the same low interest rates, we can do a few things the bigger banks can't. We're the only bank in the Tri-Valley, for example, that now offers extended terms up to 48 months. You can reduce your monthly payment by better than 20% by arranging for four year financing with Valley Bank, instead of the usual three year terms. And because Valley Bank is a local bank, our approach is surprisingly uncomplicated. The person you talk to when you apply for a loan is the person who sees that you get the money you need. If you're shopping for a car, new or used, don't make your buy until you've spoken to one of our loan officers. In Livermore call: 443-1212. In Pleasanton: 462-2462. In Dublin: 829-1900.

BART shopper runs to end

OAKLAND — BART will operate its special Saturday Shopper Shuttle for the last time this weekend.

The district has been running trains on the three Saturdays before Christmas. Weekday extended night service will continue through Dec. 30, and resume Jan. 1.

AC Transit does not run the feeder bus service on Saturdays, however. The trains carried 43,000 passengers the first Saturday of operation and 46,000 last weekend. The breakeven point for the operation was projected at 60,000 to 80,000.

The Saturday schedule calls for trains to operate from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at 15 minute intervals on all three routes.

Late night service runs only on the Fremont-Richmond and Daly City-Concord lines.

Do-ahead desserts are taste tested

Shirley Kush and Carol Blanchard sample the delights from the Christmas groaning board at Highland Oaks luncheon.

The holiday season brings with it thoughts of planning for that Christmas Day dinner. Are you the type of cook who has been saying year after year — I'll have to try something different — but never do because you don't want to experiment on your guests?

Homemakers of the Highland Oaks community in Pleasanton solved this problem by having a "tasting and recipe-sharing luncheon." Here the women brought a sample of one of their favorite holiday dishes for tasting, along with the recipe. Those who wished could copy the "new" recipe while sampling the dishes and sharing neighborhood friendliness.

Several of the recipes they shared (the do-ahead kind) are printed below.

White Christmas

2 cups whipping cream
2 jars (7-oz. each) marshmallow cream
1 1/4 cups whole natural (unblanched) almonds
2/3 cup each red and green of chopped candied cherries
2 cans (8 1/2 oz. each) crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup lime or lemon juice
4 teaspoons rum OR 1 teaspoon rum extract
1 teaspoon almond extract

Whip cream stiff; gradually beat in marshmallow cream. Reserve about 1/3 cup almonds for garnish; coarsely chop remainder. Spread chopped almonds in shallow pan, toast at 400 degrees about 8 minutes, stirring occasionally. Fold chopped almonds and cherries into cream mixture along with pineapple, lime juice, rum and almond extract. Turn into 8-cup ring mold; freeze. Unmold onto serving plate and garnish with almonds and cherries. Makes 12 to 14 servings.

New-mode cranberries

1 pound cranberries
1 pound marshmallows
1 cup whipping cream
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup crushed pineapple, drained

Grind cranberries and marshmallows together. Whip cream, adding sugar and vanilla. Fold whipped cream into pineapple and cranberries and refrigerate about two hours to set. May be poured into a mold.

Almond-choco confections

2 bars (1.26 oz. ea.) milk chocolate
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup orange juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 package (12 oz.) vanilla wafers, crushed (3 cups)
2 tablespoons orange juice
1 cup whole natural (unblanched) almonds, chopped

Break up bars; combine with orange rind, 1/2 cup juice and sugar; cook over medium heat, stirring until sugar dissolves and chocolate melts. Off heat, mix with wafers; 2 tablespoons juice and almonds. Chill 1 hour, then shape small balls. Roll in additional chopped almonds if you wish. Refrigerate in closed container several days for best flavor. Makes about 3 dozen.

Chocolate divinity

1/2 cup light corn syrup
2 cups sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
1 package (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate bits
1 cup coarsely chopped almonds
Whole blanched almonds

Combine syrup, sugar, salt and 1/2 cup water in saucepan; bring to boil; cook to 248 degrees F. (firm ball stage). Meanwhile, beat egg whites stiff. Gradually beat 1/2 cup syrup mixture into whites. Return remaining syrup to heat; cook to 272 degrees F.; gradually beat it into whites. Beat in vanilla, chocolate and almonds, beating until chocolate melts. Drop by spoonfuls into paper candy cups or spread in 9-inch square pan. While still soft, tip each with a whole almond. Cool. Makes about 3 dozen.

Full of holiday good cheer, Hostess Hayes supervised the dessert table.

Wassail tradition

The custom of the wassail bowl, an old English tradition, was named from the cry of the Anglo-Saxons while lifting it — "Wass Hael!" or "Be whole." Small bits of toast were sometimes floated in the potion, thus giving us the expression "to toast."

A wassail concoction from Victorian days instructs: "Into the bowl is first placed one cup and two tablespoons of sugar, in which is placed two and one-half cups of warm beer. A little nutmeg and ginger are then grated over the mixture, with one and three-quarters cups of sherry and twelve and one-half cups of beer added to it. It is then stirred, sweetened to taste and allowed to stand, covered for two to three hours."

Dear Friend,

As you already know, American education was born in the church and is, in reality, a parent responsibility. During the past few generations, this responsibility has been turned over to the secular state; our public educational system has become secular and materialistic in its nature and is inconsistent with our Biblical philosophy of life.

Recently a committee from our church has been investigating the possibilities of establishing a Christian school to meet the educational needs of our children here in a Christ-centered environment with dedicated Christian teachers in a spiritual academic atmosphere.

Our investigation has led us to a new program of learning based on a Biblical philosophy, individually prescribed self-instructional curriculum, and an advanced system of motivated learning. The material is designed to find the level where the child is capable of performing; permit him to learn at his own speed; provide for the development of the self-image by training in self-motivation, creativity, goal orientation, and individual initiative in achievement. The curriculum is built upon a Scope and Sequence that consists of major topics generally covered in state and local school systems. The school will provide character training for our children on a full-time basis and an academic education for grades K-12 at least equal to or superior to that of government education.

The Pleasanton Academy of Christian Education will begin January 19, 1976 with grades 2-9. Additional information concerning P.A.C.E. is available now by calling 846-8650. Admissions will be received beginning December 15, 1975.

Thank you,

Ronald A. Bennett

In the bag

EVER WISH YOU could talk to your hunting buddy over in the next duck blind, and didn't want to get out of your blind to go over there because of scaring the duck away? Then how about getting a pair of walkie-talkies? With Christmas coming, it's something to ask Santa for. These little communication instruments are excellent on hunting and fishing trips, too. LAKE CHABOT will have two plantings of trout this month; Del Valle gets 6,000; and Shadow Cliffs will receive 1,500. The total for Lake Chabot will amount to 3,500. So there should soon be good fishing very close to home.

In fact, there is good news at Del Valle Reservoir, according to the East Bay Regional Park District (EBRPD). The lake level may be down because of flood control drainage, but some of the best trout fishing perks up during the winter months. The colder water is more suitable for the trout, and they oblige Mother Nature by coming to the surface for fishermen.

Limits of trout are regular at Del Valle, with the most common bait being salmon eggs from shore of fly-type lures trolled near the surface. A few bass are also coming in occasionally. The best fishing for trout and bass is in the area from the boat ramp to the dam.

Catches of bluegill have slowed down, but continued good trout fishing is assured, especially with the December plants. Incidentally, the lake trout record was broken the last weekend, with a 4-1/2 pounder.

At Shadow Cliffs, the catches of bluegill and bass have decreased by about 90 per cent; very few are being caught. There is still some action with catfish. The last trout plant at the No. 3 fishing dock went well, since the trout found a habitat that is clear, deep, and weed-free.

At Contra Loma the lake is undergoing its annual drawdown, and fishermen are advised to visit other lakes and reservoirs. There will be muddy conditions around the lake that will be an inconvenience and a possible safety problem for the time being.

IF YOU WANT to see large numbers of wild fowl, you should take a trip down to the San Luis Reservoir. Take your camera and catch a permanent sight of these beautiful wild birds. Last weekend their number was tremendous.

SCULL BOATERS were having a rough time of it at Clifton Court Forebay last weekend. High winds made the forebay extremely dangerous, and some boaters barely made it back to the ramp.

STREAM CONDITION information for steelhead anglers is now available 24 hours a day on taped reports from a Sacramento telephone number the Department of Fish and Games has announced. The number is (916) 452-3564.

Running continuously, the 1 1/2 - minute - long reports provide current information on weather, stream color (green, milky, murky, etc.) and a measure of river visibility in inches.

Covered in the reports, which are updated every weekday morning by 10 o'clock are 12 north state river stations from the Smith on the north to the Russian on the south and the American River at Nimbus and the upper Sacramento at Red Bluff.

Assisting department personnel in gathering the data are representatives from the state Department of Parks and Recreation and the Pacific Lumber Co. in Scotia, Humboldt County.

The service, called the steelhead rivers report, will continue through March.

Hot Granada plays Knights

Granada High School varsity basketball coach Pat Fracisco uses an old cliché when he describes his team's success this season.

"We've just been playing them one at a time," he said.

Well, that strategy has worked well for the Matadors as they carry a 3-0 non-league mark and sixth ranking in the East Bay into today's 3:30 pm game with Las Lomas on the Knights' court.

"We have been playing well as a team with no one individual standing out by himself," Fracisco continued. "All the guys are doing a good job. We have a lot of experience on this year's team and we have received a lot of help from our junior reserves."

Fracisco plans to start the same line-up he has used all pre-season against Las Lomas. Lee Brennan, a 6-foot-7 senior, will start at center. At forward will be 6-foot-3 senior Scott Campbell and 6-foot-5 junior Joey Wujek. Mike Fracisco and Tom Tanasovich will man the guard spots.

Wujek has been an all-around standout for the Matadors this season. He is an outstanding defensive player and rebounder. Campbell is probably the best shooter on the squad.

League favorites meet in Classic

Four teams with designs on league championships will be featured this evening as the first round of the Amador Basketball Classic concludes.

The host Dons meet Redwood of Larkspur at 8:30. Arroyo and Bishop O'Dowd will play at 7.

Out of this group only Arroyo failed to win a basketball title last year. But the Dons are considered a prospect this time around in the Hayward Athletic League. O'Dowd figures to challenge another Classic entrant, St. Joseph's, in the Catholic Athletic League while Redwood is usually the power in Marin County.

Amador anticipates a challenge in its bid for the EBAL crown, but the Dons have won the last two titles and won't relinquish them readily.

Amador lost to Redwood twice at the end of last basketball season, once in the North Coast Section tournament, and again in the Tournament of Champions.

The Giants have few holdovers from that team, and coach Dick Hart is faced with one of his smallest lines in quite a while. Redwood's key figure will be 6-2 Gary Sorgen, a starter last year. He will be at center, flanked by a couple of 6-2 forwards, Jeff Stewart and Jim Connor.

Amador's Rob Yackley, 6-5, will be the tallest man on the floor. Home fans should get their first look at Yackley's brother Jim, expected to play a great deal at forward this season, but slowed so far by an ankle injury. The younger Yackley saw his first action last weekend at the Central California Classic.

Senior guard Mike Hill, whose first starting assignment came against Redwood in the TOC, will be the key to Amador's offense. He and guard Steve Mohatt are the long range scoring threats for the Dons.

Arroyo will enjoy a size advantage in its game with Bishop O'Dowd, but the Dragons are accustomed to height variances. The problem this year will be a lack of team speed.

"O'Dowd this year is going to be a lot different," says coach Al Ferreira. "We're just not as quick, and I have just one kid who played at all last year."

Fortunately that one is a good player, 6-5 forward Mike Ward, a center last season. The Dragons will have 6-6 Greg Williams in the pivot.

One of the guards is 6-1 Dominic Pontrelli, the quarterback for O'Dowd's football team.

Arroyo will start 6-5 1/2 center Eric Tauschak and 6-6 forward Mark Gamblin. On the bench the Dons have a couple of other players at 6-4.

Foreman win bores fans

SAN FRANCISCO — George Foreman's comeback into the heavyweight ranks failed to gain acceptance with the fans last night at Civic Auditorium.

The former heavyweight champion from Livermore knocked out onetime sparring partner Eddie Brooks at 1:12 of the fourth round in a scheduled 10-round exhibition bout. Foreman ended the fight with a weak left that put Brooks on the canvas for the fourth time. The outcome was inevitable but the gathering of 9,000 fans was bitter anyway.

Foreman sent Brooks crashing early in the third round with an overhand right flush on the jaws. Early in the same round an upper cut right crunched into Brook's jaw, toppling him for the second time.

Another left right combination sent the 215 pound Brooks to the floor in round four before Foreman's left uppercut ended the bout.

The former champ was greeted warmly prior to the fight and won over the crowd apparently with a pitch for United States Olympic funds. This was the second bout in less than a month for Foreman and in each fight he donated a share of the purse to America's Olympic cause.

Former NFL rushing king Jim Brown stepped into the ring to appeal on behalf of Foreman. Brown's plea brought the final cheers for the man who lost his heavyweight title to Muhammad Ali 14 months ago.

Brooks brought a 24-3 record into the ring but was definitely no competition for Foreman who weighed 225. This fact became apparent immediately and ignited a barrage of boos.

Last night's exhibition plus one three weeks ago in the Catskill mountains served as tuneups for Foreman. His first real bout since the loss to Ali comes up Jan. 24 when Foreman meets Ron Lyle.

The exhibitions, Foreman has said, chiefly were staged to raise money for the Olympics. Foreman's manager, Gil Clancy, says however, that the bouts served to sharpen him.

They were hardly exhibitions in good will, however. Foreman hardly held off in his assault of Brooks. His silence, however, did little to placate the fans.

Tigers win opening tilt

Fremont High School survived a late rally by the Mission San Jose Warriors to post a 60-51 victory in the opening game of the Amador Basketball Tournament last night.

The Tigers, who were up by as much as 18 points early in the fourth quarter, saw the Warriors come back to pull within five, but the boards, which belonged to Fremont eventually gave them the win as they were able to control the ball and get close shots.

The Warriors started well, jumping to a quick 8-3 lead but Fremont's height began to tell and MSJ found themselves down 9-8 at the end of the first quarter.

Fremont extended its lead to 25-16 at the halftime break as they continued to control the boards. Don Smith, who scored 20 points, led the Tiger charge.

Fremont extended its lead to 14 points in the third quarter before the Warriors came back in the final period. The Warriors closed to a five-point margin with 2:27 left before the Tigers held them off.

Grizzlies defeated

California High School was unable to stop the scoring of Jeff Romiguere and went on to lose a 63-51 decision to Canyon High School Tuesday night.

Romiguere led the winners with 31 points, hitting 11 field goals and a like number of free throws. California outscored the Castro Valley school, 16-11 in the second quarter but was unable to maintain the pace in the second half. Canyon put together 14 and 19-point periods in the second half to put away the victory. California could only score nine points in the third quarter and 16 in the fourth.

Adult school offers art course

LIVERMORE — A new art course in drawing, sketching and cartooning will turn Valley social critics into seething political cartoonists ... maybe.

Instructor will be Douglas Brittain, who holds a master's degree in art and journalism education. He earned his bachelor's from Cal State, Hayward, in 1968. In addition to teaching art in Northern California and Australia, he has worked in summer schools and been a substitute teacher in local school districts.

Many of Brittain's drawings and political cartoons appeared in the local press last year. He has been exhibiting drawings since 1971 and he recently won a first-place award in the Newark Days art competition.

The new course is designed to help students create images by developing their imaginations. They will learn how to explore and utilize images selected from art history, mass media, commercial art and others sources.

According to the teacher, "The main purpose of the class is to help give beginning students confidence when working from their imaginations." Signups are at the Livermore Adult School, 3044 East Ave., 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily. Further information may be obtained from the office by calling 447-6671.

Young Dublin ballerina

Her Christmas revolves around 'Nutcracker'

By JEAN McKENNA

Jan Wexner of Dublin, in her favorite role with the Oakland Ballet, is a Bon-Bon come to life — a bit of confection irresistible to kids.

The Nutcracker ballet about the little girl who finds herself in the enchanted kingdom of her toys on Christmas Eve has become a beloved holiday tradition for children and adults around the world since it was first staged in 1892.

The Nutcracker has also become a kind of tradition for Jan Wexner of Dublin, a young member of the Oakland Ballet Company.

Christmas activities with family, boyfriends, the normal social life of a high school senior, sometimes even schoolwork — all take second place to the absorbing interest in ballet of this bright-eyed seventeen year old. Jan will be transformed into a pirouetting bon-bon, flower, maid, rat and snowflake in her third year of performing in the elaborately-staged Nutcracker.

In addition to classes frequently scheduled at 11:30 a.m., Jan participates in a class every night at 5:30 p.m., as well as in rehearsals Saturday and Sunday. She has been rehearsing with the Oakland company since mid-October in preparation for a dozen full-length performances of The Nutcracker ballet at the Paramount Theatre of the Arts in Oakland.

Jan will also travel with the company when The Nutcracker tours Northern California, the Pacific Northwest and Canada beginning the day after Christmas (Such a tour is an ambitious undertaking, by the way for a production as lavish as The Nutcracker.)

"My family has come to accept the fact that I'm not at home at Christmastime," Jan admits. The only day she has to spend with her family is Christmas Day itself.

The production engages so much of her time and energy that Jan felt it necessary to stop attending classes at Dublin High School during the two weeks immediately preceding opening night. However, she has a long list of assignments she must complete during that time, and she'll probably take schoolbooks along on the tour.

Although she admits that such dedication to dancing "sets you apart from the rest of the kids" and "your friends just stop seeing you," Jan believes the sacrifices are worth the thrill.

"I find it exciting to move to music, and I feel a different person on stage," she exclaims. Her favorite role, among the many she plays in The Nutcracker, is that of the French Bon-Bon because it gives her the most opportunity to make individualized expressions — I'm really a ham," she giggles. As a Flower she must smile brightly, but as a Snowflake she must imagine herself light and sharp, without a smile.

Each ballet company, of course, offers its own unique interpretation of the traditional story and music. The Oakland Ballet's 1975 production features vivid new sets, including an animated grandfather clock, a giant decorated egg, and a Christmas tree that grows. Although Jan has danced several of the same roles in last year's production, this year's Nutcracker offer new challenges with new characters and choreography.

"Sometimes we have to make quick costume changes in the dark, listening to the music for our cue to return onstage," she confides. She alternates roles with other dancers, playing three characters per performance. "The rat role is lots of fun, but sometimes it's difficult to see wearing those masks with long noses."

The Nutcracker's kingdom, where toys and Christmas sweets come to life, is an immediately believable dream come true for children. Because of its fantasy and young heroes, the ballet is an ideal way to introduce children to the art of classical dance. In response to a record-breaking 1974 season, top-priced tickets for all Oakland performances have been sold out. Tickets in all other price ranges are still available for performances Dec. 18-20 at 8 p.m.; Dec. 20 and 21 at 2 p.m.; and Dec. 22 and 23 at 8 p.m. The Christmas Eve performance has been cancelled.

Ticket information is available from the Paramount box office at 465-6400. BART has announced special service until midnight during the week days before Christmas, and through the help of grants, over 9000 school children from the Eastbay will attend special matinee performances.

Jan has lectured to fourth graders at San Ramon's Country Club School about the ballet they will travel to see this week. She herself became serious about ballet when she was 11 years old.

She had been taking ballet instruction from Ronn Guidi, now director and choreographer of the Oakland Ballet Company six years ago, Jan was asked by her instructor to become part of the group. She has literally grown up with the younger members of the company since then, progressing from small parts in "Hansel and Gretel" to more difficult roles in a recent modern ballet production.

Jan speaks with admiration of her trainer, Guidi. Although they have not talked about it, she believes he intuitively understands that she wants to make a career of ballet with all its rigors and rewards.

Christmas serenade

The Livermore Civic Chor serenades the Christmas Babe in "Jesu, Priceless Treasure" by Bach in a holiday concert Friday, Dec. 19 at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church in Livermore.

The 8 p.m. program features a rendition of familiar carols such as "Pat-a-Pam" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas," as well as selections from Handel's "Messiah."

The 60-member adult chorus, under the direction of Nico Snel, will be accompanied by organ and a small orchestra.

Tickets at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for senior citizens and students will be available at the door.

Photo exhibit

The round sensuous hills, weatherbeaten barns and gnarled old trees of the valley are the favorite subjects of a local photographer who opens a show in San Francisco next month.

Bill Gordon of Pleasanton, an electrical engineer at Sandia, will exhibit his photographs in a two-man show at Lucas Gallery, 2250 Union St., beginning Jan. 3 and continuing through the month.

The Woodcutter and his singing enchant the naive Miss Hood as the forest animals swoon in the children's musical 'The Dangerous Christmas of Red Riding Hood' playing at Amador High this weekend. For reservations call 848-3280.

Musical tickles younger set

By PAT KENNEDY

"The Dangerous Christmas of Red Riding Hood" passes three acid tests:

The Squirmy Kindergartener Test;
The Blase Ten-Year-Old Boy Test;
The I'd-Rather-Be-Painting-The Garage-Door Father Test.

Most everyone filed out of Amador High's auditorium Sunday afternoon wearing a smile, having spent an hour and a half in the presence of American Fantasy Theatre's Little Red Riding Hood and her animal friends.

"Dangerous Christmas ..." (or "Oh Wolf, Poor Wolf") plays again tomorrow evening (8 p.m.) and Saturday afternoon (1:30 p.m.). General admission tickets are $2.25 adult, $1.75 student, and $1.25 child; get there half an hour early for choice of seats and bring a few extra quarters for fresh cookies and cider on sale.

The 90-minute musical is billed as "Little Red Riding Hood — from the Wolf's point of view." It's based on a 1965 TV special with Lisa Minelli, beautifully adapted for the stage with scenes in Lillian Hood's room, "The Forest," and "Granny's House."

The Wolf's point of view is, of course, that Lillian Hood ("That's her REAL name") was asking for it. Struggling seductively through the forest in her flashy new cape, she rejected his attentions in favor of an egotistical singing woodsman who's much more

Pierre LePage as Lone T. Wolf keeps the show moving along, especially when, disguised in Granny's black lace negligee, he asks a squealing audience whether he should spare Lillian Hood. Lillian Hood is played by a HUD housing specialist (This is a part-time theater company), Linda Hurevitz, who has an obtrusive Eastern accent but plenty of singing and dancing talent.

Betsy Bell Ringer plays a giant mouse who's Lillian's constant pantomime shadow. The assorted wolves, frog, raccoon, bear, skunk, rabbit, lion, and panther are sometimes inaudible, and the chorus they sing, "Gonna Howl Tonight," comes out flaccid instead of jazzy. But the kiddies love their costumes.

In fact it's a kids' show — not for toddlers who are going to talk through the clever songs, but for school-aged children who can appreciate some of the double entendres and funny lines that come in between the chase scenes and dancing animals.

For adults, too? Well — as the American Fantasy Theater says in the pink playbill — it's a place "where children can bring their parents without shame (and vice versa!)." But for that Friday night theater date ... Broadway's still the place you want to be.

By AL FISCHER

It has been a very good year, as "old blue eyes" would say.

Stage, screen and musical presentations have lighted up valley theaters and halls throughout the year, underscoring once again the capacity for cultural arts in the communities of Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin, San Ramon and Sunol.

Two of the bigger occurrences of the past 12 months have to be the opening of the Cultural Arts Center in Pleasanton and the debut of the Livermore Musical Theater.

The latter provides another prime outlet for the abundance of youthful stage talent, both out from and back stage, in this valley.

The student produced and cast production of "Babes in Arms" was the LMT's initial offering, debuting in August at Jackson Avenue School.

Initiated by local young people, LMT got off the ground thanks to $400 in loans from Livermore Cultural Arts Council, Cask and Mask, the Livermore Civic Chorus and the cooperation of the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District.

We would be remiss if we left out — amongst the highlights of '75 — the continued excellence and draw of Pleasanton Playhouse productions.

The March production of "Dames at Sea" was a light and fun-filled romp, yet quite an undertaking as the playhouse has usually done more well-known musical comedies such as "Man of La Mancha" and "Fiddler on the Roof." "Dames" also marked the debut of 23-year old Carl Pister as a musical director.

In August the husband-wife team of Fred and Marie Cochran scored a considerable hit as the King and Anna in "The King and I." Kudos for this production, as noted by The Times, were also garnered by Gil and Pat Maines, Bev Hamlin and recreation coordinator Ann Carroll for their supportive efforts.

Among some of the stage presentations earlier in the year that incorporated valley talent or drew valley patrons were the Diablo Light Opera Company's "The Desert Song" (in March) and the Second Annual Spring Folk Concert at Livermore High School in April. The latter was a benefit for Twin Valley

Firefighters local plans professional variety show

Master Impressionist Dick Kerr will star in a family variety show to be sponsored by the Livermore Firefighters Local 2318 at the Alameda County Fairgrounds next month.

Other professional entertainers billed for the show are Comedian Johnny O'Brien, Dwight Moore and his monogol review (a comical dog act), Country-Western Singer Beverlee Reed and the acrobatic Kobelt Sisters from Pleasanton. Music will be provided by the Vern Rolle Orchestra of Pleasanton.

The show is slated Jan. 31 as a benefit for the Firefighters group and its community endeavors, according to Local President Steve Dick. He says the Firefighters hope to make the show an annual event and seek the support of the community toward that end.

Tickets are available by calling 455-6450.

Mexican ballet

The annual production of "Christmas in Mexico" by the Chabot College Ballet Folklorico offers family entertainment Saturday, Dec. 20 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 21 at 2 p.m.

Tickets to the production at the Chabot College - Community Auditorium, 25555 Hesperian Boulevard, Hayward, will be available at the door, $2 for adults and $1 for students.

For Thursday, Dec. 18, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Today won't be all wine and roses for you, but if you can accept things philosophically, the rough spots won't bruise you at all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll have to do some fancy juggling today to keep the budget in the black. Happily, you're sharp at manipulating things.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Associates may give you some stiff opposition today. Keep your wits about you and retain your sense of humor. You'll win them over.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Play your hunches in coping with a serious situation. Things can be handled if you don't back down on what you feel is the best way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're lucky today, but not in anything speculative. Confine your gambling to those things where your knowledge assures the right outcome.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Competition will be much stiffer today than you relish. But if you feel you can win, your positive approach will help you to overcome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) To placate others, you have a tendency to subordinate your own views. This is a mistake. Your thoughts are as good or better than theirs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't hesitate to invest your time, your services or your good will today. When it comes to money, however, keep a lock on the wallet.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone you're close to will have opinions contrary to yours. Their way is better. Don't let your ego cloud your judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Pressures are going to be heavy on you early in the day. Don't panic. Space things out a bit. You'll be better able to deal with them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have your alternatives ready today. Something you hope to accomplish may not be possible at first. Your second move can prove more fortunate.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Feeding your vanity is not the prime consideration today. Go after those things you can put in the bank, to use later to keep warm and secure.

Your Birthday
Dec. 18, 1975

Don't be afraid to take well-calculated risks this coming year. If people you know and trust advise you to move ahead, then give it a go.

A ♣-K opening needs a

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It was the last rubber at Castle Elsinore. Hamlet, sitting South, knew he should have passed the fair Ophelia's diamond opening, but people tend to bid in the last rubber. Similarly, Ophelia didn't have to jump all the way to three notrump, but she had great faith in Hamlet.

West opened the king of spades. Hamlet ducked, but had to win the spade continuation. Then he soloiquized, "To gamble, or not to gamble. Ah, there's the rub. For whether 'tis better to suffer a small penalty or to test the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and risk a seven trick set. I'll try the latter."

Then he led dummy's king of hearts, overtook with his ace and led his 10 of diamonds. The finesse worked and all was well at Castle Elsinore.

The finesse was not as much of a gamble as it might have been. West's bid had marked him with a lot of high cards and he was more likely than not to hold the king of diamonds.

Ask the Jacobys

A California reader wants to know if his opening bid of four hearts holding:

▲ A ♠ A K Q J 9 4 2 ♦ A Q J 8 5

was correct. His partner had passed.

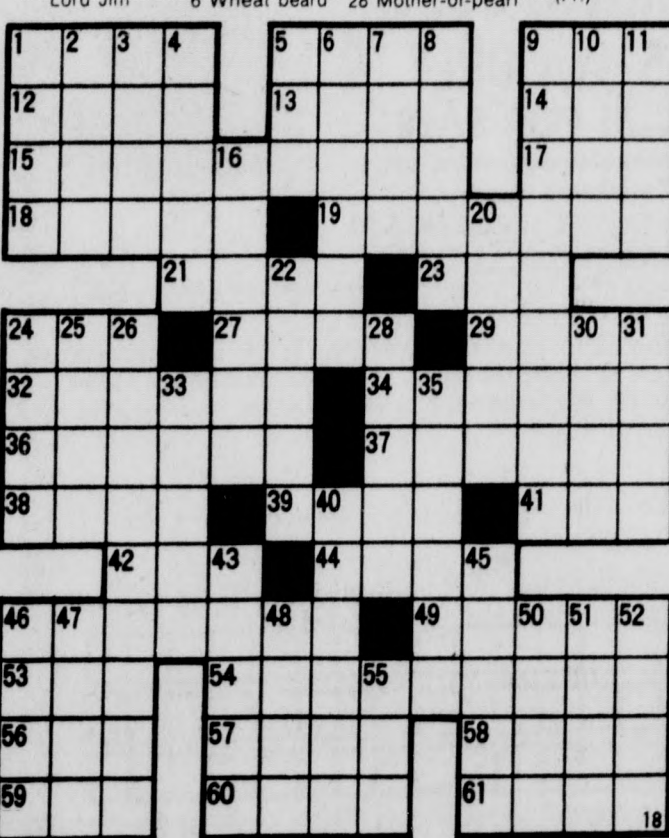

Our answer is that it was sound. He had 10 tricks all his own, but a forcing two-bid opening would have been far better. In spite of his partner's pass there might well be a slam.

Highest honor to Marc Foote

Marc C. Foote received the Eagle Scout award at a Court of Honor held Monday evening, Dec. 15 at the Asbury United Methodist Church. The fourteen-year-old is a member of Boy Scout Troop 900 and a freshman at Livermore High School. Before becoming a Scout, he was in the Y-Indian Guides and Cub Pack 918.

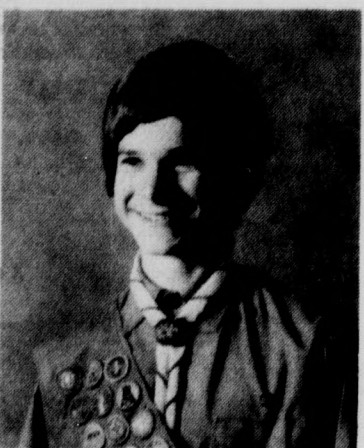

In Scouting, Marc has been a patrol leader and troop bugler. He is now a member of the Leadership Corps and is an Assistant Senior Patrol Leader. The young Scout is in the Order of the Arrow, has attended Miwok Leadership Training, and has been on staff for Black Oak Leadership Training. Marc has received awards for the mile swim and 50-mile backpack trip and has earned 25 merit badges.

For his Eagle service project, Marc, with the help of 15 boys from his troop, built a much needed trail last spring at Shadow Cliffs Regional Park. The trail runs from the top of a levee down to a new fishing dock.

Participants in the Eagle Scout ceremony included Peter Griffin, scoutmaster; Ronald Saltgaver, former scoutmaster; Robert Pitzer, troop committee chairman; Eagle Scouts, Richard Greeno and Davie Ruzicka and Life Scout, Chris Ruzicka and Andrew Turnbull.

Troop 900 is sponsored by the Asbury United Methodist Church.

Air control criticism splits board

By BRUCE ADAMS
Lester News Bureau

SAN FRANCISCO — A bitter split exists between board members at the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District on how the district should respond to criticism.

Recent criticisms include charges that large refineries, including some of the country's largest in Contra Costa County, are taking advantage of "lax" district enforcement policies.

The issue came to a head Wednesday when board member Robert Plowright, Alameda County, leveled a blast at the district's highest ranking employee for firing off a letter on district stationery to the authors of a recent critique.

D. J. Callaghan, district air pollution control officer, without board consent, wrote to the Council on Economic Priorities in response to a two-year study the group did which charged the district with having ineffective regulations and bogged-down enforcement.

Plowright said if a city manager or county administrator sent out a similar letter "he'd be looking for a job."

"I don't approve of these things," Plowright said.

Board chairman William Jelavich, Santa Clara County, said Callaghan had "over-reacted."

"Everything stops if anyone criticizes the district and all hell breaks loose," Jelavich said the board should endorse any letters going out on district stationery.

"Why doesn't he just get his own stationery printed?" asked board member Gerald Poznanovich, Sonoma County. "Then Mr. Callaghan can tell anyone to go fly a kite if he wants to."

Board member James Lemos, Solano County, lashed out at Jelavich for his criticism of Callaghan.

"We knew it (the two-year study) was full of lies. You're against the staff all the way through and you always have been."

Alfred Nelder, San Francisco, also came to Callaghan's defense.

"The staff has a duty to answer criticisms. I don't really care what they utter, as long as it's in the best interests of the district," Nelder said.

"The criticism is never going to go away," said Peter Arrington, Marin County, "so let's forget about it and get on with our business."

The board voted 10 to 6 to have the executive committee come up with a recommended district policy on responding to criticism.

Two East Bay researchers made similar charges in a report released last month.

Saturday last BART special day

OAKLAND — This week will be BART's last for providing special Saturday service.

BART has been operating trains the past two Saturdays to assist Christmas shoppers. The Saturday schedule calls for trains to operate from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. at 15-minute intervals throughout the day. Normal weekday routes, consisting of direct service between Concord/Daly City, Richmond/Fremont and Fremont/Daly City, are being maintained for the special Saturday schedule.

For details, call the following toll-free BART information numbers any time during the system's operating hours: Oakland/Berkeley/Orinda area.....465-BART. Lafayette/Concord/Walnut Creek area.....933-BART. Antioch/Pittsburg area.....754-BART.
